

While Loops

1. Write a function that counts down from a given number to zero and prints the value using a while loop.
2. Write a variation on the multipleInRange function, discussed in class, that counts the number of multiples of factor in the given range and returns that count instead of returning True or False.

Hint: think about when you'll know for sure that you can return a result.