

CMU 15-112: Fundamentals of Programming and Computer Science
Carnegie Mellon University: Summer 2020
Student Contract

By signing this contract, I am guaranteeing that:

1. I have visited the course website at <https://www.cs.cmu.edu/~112>
2. I have carefully read and fully understand the entire course syllabus on the course website. [Note: of course, if you have any questions about course policies, you can and should ask them in recitation, at faculty office hours, at small groups, or on Parthean before signing this document!]
3. In particular, while I have read the syllabus carefully,
 - a. I understand it is my responsibility to thoroughly read and follow all course instructions
 - b. I understand that all solo homework is entirely solo, meaning that I must not collaborate with anyone in any way
 - c. I understand the limits of collaboration on collaborative homework
 - d. I understand that no phones or electronic devices are allowed in lecture, recitation, or any other faculty-led or TA-led course event, except for the purposes of attending those events
 - e. I understand the entire section in the syllabus on academic integrity. I understand that academic integrity violations carry serious consequences. I also understand that immediate and complete honesty is the best path to a better outcome
 - f. I also understand the sections on course resources and on well-being and happiness. [Note: we are genuinely dedicated to supporting you, helping you thrive in this course and more broadly at CMU while learning important skills that should help advance your academic and professional careers.]
